

About Caring Transitions of Northern Arizona

Caring Transitions of Northern Arizona is the Professional Solution for relocation services including downsizing, decluttering, & estate sales for both full and partial liquidations.

Whether you've decided to downsize or you're clearing the home of someone who has passed, packing and moving is always stressful. I'm Faun Duns, the local owner and operator of Caring Transitions of Northern Arizona, and I opened this business because I wanted to help relieve that stress.

Caring Transitions is different because we provide a full-service solution for people who are relocating, downsizing or clearing a house and our team is specially trained to work with families and seniors. Sometimes, when you're looking at a whole move and you're overwhelmed, it can be hard to even think about where to start. When you bring in Caring Transitions, we'll work with you to create a plan that meets your needs and helps you get to the next chapter of your life.

Prior to opening this Caring Transitions business, I raised two children and spent 10 years in education. I'm also fluent in Spanish. I found Caring Transitions when my uncle, who lived in Iowa, died suddenly of a heart attack. He was a bit of a collector and my family went through all his belonging, kept a very small amount and then called the Caring Transitions business near his home in Iowa. Within three weeks, the house was clear and ready for the market. It was such a great experience that I decided to look into opening my own franchise here in Northern Arizona.

Caring Transitions is America's largest resource for managing senior relocations as well as downsizing and estate liquidations. In addition to organizing, packing, de-cluttering, moving and resettling, we can handle estate sales – including online estate sales – liquidations and preparing homes for market. All of our services are customizable, so you'll only pay for the services you need. Give Caring Transitions of Northern Arizona a call today and let's talk about the solutions we can provide to you and your family.
